The Method

Basically, what you will be doing is reselling votes to owners of server such as: Minecraft Servers, Runescape Private Servers, WoW Servers, and more, and I'm going to show you how!

-Owners of these servers pay tons of money in order to get votes for their servers because it allows their servers to rank higher on toplist, which in returns gives their servers more exposure, which then gets them more players!

-The toplist site example I will be using is:

<http://www.planetminecraft.com/resources/servers/>

Getting Started

Firstly, you are going to need to find your customers. One great way to do this is to simply open a shop on a forum, saying that you are selling toplist votes.

People will then contact you and specify the amount they want, and for which site. You can also post ads on sites such as rune-server, planetminecraft forums, fiverr, etc.

The key to finding customers is finding fresh and new sites to advertise on. You could even go to the extent of making your own website tailored to this!

Another great way to find people is by finding almost empty servers on Planet Minecraft's server list and going on and becoming friends a little bit with the owner, you can then ask him if he's interested in getting more players, exposure, etc.

How to get the votes

Now, you are obviously wondering how to get the votes themselves. How we will do this is by using the site: <http://swiftvoter.com/>

Simply register and login, you should now be brought to the dashboard. On the left hand side click "vote" a list of toplist sites will now come up like so:Note:

if there is a red button beside the site it means it's currently broken, so do not offer that site as an option to your customers.

Now, if we go ahead and scroll down and click on a site such as "Planet Minecraft" you'll see a page come up that allows you to specify the amount of votes you want, this is where your customers come in. If for example your customer wants 500 votes on Planet Minecraft, then set the dial to 500 votes and click "calculate order price", you'll

See that 500 votes cost $30. So what you'll want to do is charge your customer somewhere between $40-$50 so that you can make $10-$20 profit from the order, or you can charge more if you'd like more profit, but if you go to high your customer might not want to pay it.

You can then go ahead and have your customer send you the money for the votes. Lets say you're going to charge them $50. After you have received the order, you'll need to allocate $30 from the $50 to your balance on swiftvoter (remember, this does not require an investment of your own money since your customer just paid you for this). You'll then want to add the $30 to your account. Now wait a few minutes and you should have $30 on your account balance, if you do not see it try refreshing your page. Then ask your customer for the link to their vote page, again using the Planet Minecraft example, if their vote page link is:

<http://www.planetminecraft.com/server/raidcraft-factions-pvp-164/>

Then, you'd put "raidcraft-factions-pvp-164" in the server ID part of the vote page.

Then, set the amount of votes to 500, since that's what our customer has paid for. Then simply click create order and the votes will start. They will be done in the time the site specified. You have now made $20 profit from literally 5 minutes of work. The trick is just finding the customers, but it's not hard at all considering everyone is always looking to cheat and get their servers more votes. Some people even want orders of up to 10,000 votes, which on the site costs around $600, but you can easily charge the customer $800 and make $200 profit.

I know this may seem like a bit of an odd method, but all it is, is reselling in a very demanding market, and after your first few orders from customers you will have a hang of it in no time. There is also room to make tons of profit depending on how much you charge your customers. Just never tell them you are re-selling or they'll learn how to do it themselves.
